

An early George III Mustard Pot made in London in 1765 by John Delmester.

Sold

REF: 153637

Height: 3 cm (1.2")

Diameter: 2 cm (0.8")

Description

The Mustard Pot is plain in design and has a slender cylindrical body. The plain hinged cover displays an outer reeded edge and the scroll handle terminates in a chair back thumb piece. Mustard Pots start to appear in the early 1760s, therefore this represents a rare early example.
