A very fine early George III Soup Ladle made in London in 1766 by John Romer.

£975

REF: 375653

Mary Cooke Antiques Ltd
12 The Old Power Station, 121 Mortlake High Street, London, SW14 8SN
+44 (0)20 8876 5777

Description

The Soup Ladle has a large shell bowl and a stem unusually decorated with cascading lobes at the top, as well as a raised section down the stem, a reeded border and shoulders where it meets the bowl. The reverse of the stem also has a thread edge and is engraved at the top with a set of contemporary script initials. The reverse of the bowl, where it meets the handle, also displays the unusual lobed decoration. John Romer had workshops in Compton Street, Soho, when this piece was made.Length: 14 inches, 35 cm.Diameter of the bowl: 3.6 inches, 9 cm.Weight: 7 oz.

Mary Cooke Antiques Ltd
12 The Old Power Station, 121 Mortlake High Street, London, SW14 8SN
+44 (0)20 8876 5777