

A very unusual and very long condiment ladle made in Edinburgh in 1894 by Brooks and Son

£450

REF: 374690

Description

This very unusual ladle is modelled in the Hanoverian Pattern and displays a circular bowl. This piece is very well made and displays a crisp set of marks, being also of a very good gauge of silver. This was probably used to retrieve condiments from a long jar. Length: 11.2 inches, 28cm.
